

---

Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

Posted by mczyk - 2010/06/11 08:10

---

All,

I am trying to install Pachyderm under Ubuntu Lucid. I have downloaded the deb file, Pachyderm2-sfr55.deb, clicked on it, my local package installer boots up, but then I get an error:

Error: Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

And yet, I have ImageMagick 7:6.6.7.8 installed straight out of the Ubuntu Lucid repository.

Is this not the right version? It's the latest, I believe.

Your help is greatly appreciated,

Mark Cyzyk
Johns Hopkins University

---

Re:Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

Posted by ssayre - 2010/06/15 13:04

---

Hi Mark-

I have passed your issues onto one of the developers and hope to get back to you shortly.

All best,
Scott

---

Re:Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

Posted by ssayre - 2010/06/15 13:07

---

Hi Mark-

It looks like you were trying to install Pachyderm 2.0 rather than the latest 2.1 build which addresses hundreds of issues with 2.1. We have temporarily withdrawn the download of 2.1.0.1 because a small DB bug, but should post a revised version tomorrow. I am interested to see your results with the new installer.

-Scott

---

Re:Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

Posted by mczyk - 2010/06/16 11:20

---

Thanks!

Where will it be posted? I just checked the Pachyderm Sourceforge space (<http://sourceforge.net/projects/pachyderm/>) and that previous version (2.0) is posted there.

Mark

---

Re:Dependency is not satisfiable: ImageMagick

Posted by ssayre - 2010/06/16 16:12

---

---

Hi-

Just released the revised installer. You should be receiving an email from Pachyforge.

-Scott

=====